The Complete Guide to What Annoys Us About

workday®

We must "enter time for worker" for each individual student worker who did not submit their timecard.

Redundancy: Manual journals require us to resubmit all receipts and documentation from the original expense report.

PDF reports and journal lines are not designed well for the user. We don't want horizontal scrollbars.

There are these things called worktags, and they need to be exact. Sometimes, we'll type worktags in, but another setting will overwrite everything with different worktags.

Finding a past Expense Report, Journal, or Ad Hoc number is kind of weird.

There are approval chains that may go for miles.
